

EDITING PAGES: UNDO ACTIONS

1. To undo a recent edit, look to the editing sidebar and you will find an icon that looks like a clock with a circular arrow around it.

2. Select the icon and a chronological history of all the actions that you made since opening the document will appear, along with brief details about each action.

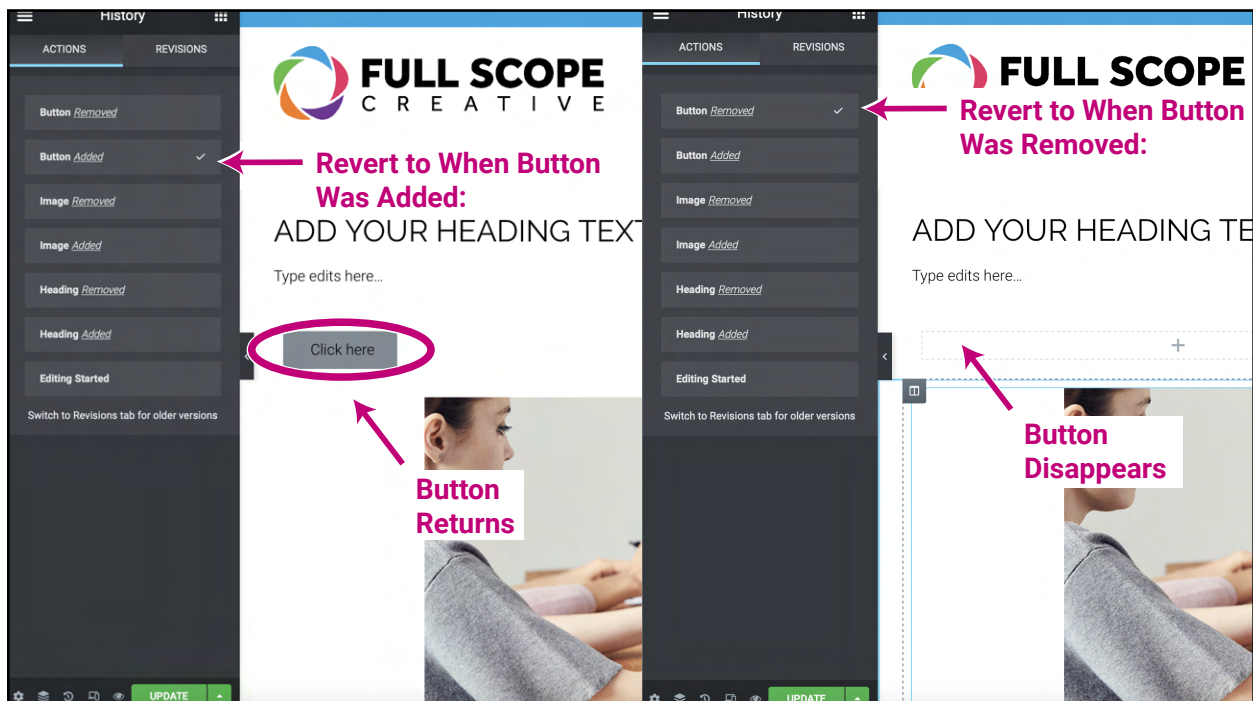

The screenshot shows the Elementor History panel on the left side of the editor. The panel is titled "History" and has two tabs: "ACTIONS" (selected) and "REVISIONS". The "ACTIONS" tab lists the following actions in chronological order:

- Button Removed ✓
- Button Added
- Image Removed
- Image Added
- Heading Removed
- Heading Added
- Editing Started

At the bottom of the panel, there is a note: "Switch to Revisions tab for older versions".

- If you select one, it will restore the page back to when certain actions were not made. It goes in chronological order, so when you click on one of the previous actions, it will eliminate all of the actions above it.
- If you decide against reverting the page back, select the action at the top of the listed actions

- Don't click out of the "History" tab until you are sure you want to undo your action. If you click away, you can't go back to the actions that you decided to undo.
- After you are sure you made the correct edits, click the green "Update" button.
